ONCE EDITOR HERE IS DEAD

BURIAL HERE TUESDAY

Superintendent of Maryville Schools for Four Years and Editor for 13 Years—Was Author of Note.

Byron A. Dunn, 84 years old, formerly superintendent of the Maryville public schools for four years, and editor of the former Maryville Republican about thirteen years, died at 5:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon at a hospital in Stevens Point, Wis. Death was caused by injuries received when run down by an automobile several weeks ago.

The body, accompanied by the children, will arrive in Maryville tomorrow noon. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Baptist Church, the pastor, Rev. Guy L. Prather, officiating. The body will lie in state at the church from 1 to 2 p. m. The pallbearers will include J. B. Robinson, sr., Dr. C. T. Bell, F. P. Robinson, A. K. Frank, Edward Condon and Paul Sisson. Members of Sedgwick Post, G. A. R., will attend the funeral in a body and the Veterans Association will have charge of the service at the cemetery.

Mr. Dunn was born in Hillsdale County, Michigan, August 4, 1842. At the age of six years, Mr. Dunn moved with his parents to Cass County, where he received his primary education in the common schools.

He served in the army during the Civil War, enlisting in Company C, Ninth Indiana Infantry. He joined his regiment at Shiloh, and participated in all the engagements in which his regiment served, including sixteen pitched battles and seiges, besides skirmishes without number. At the battle of Chickamauga he was wounded by a spent ball, and again at Nashville, in which action he was crippled for life. At the close of the war he engaged in teaching, and subsequently took a full course of study in Hillsdale College, from which he was graduated in the class of 1870.

Mr. Dunn moved to Nodaway County in August, 1871, locating in Maryville. He was superintendent of the Maryville public schools for a period of four years. In 1875 he concluded to retire from the profession of teaching, and connected himself with the Maryville Republican, of which ably conducted and influential journal he was editor-in-chief about thirteen years. Mr. Dunn bought the paper from Dr. H. E. Robinson. Connected with Mr. Dunn was H. B. Swartz, who sold out his interest to Dunn in 1877. Dunn sold an interest in the paper in 1879 to Byron E. Condon. The paper was sold in 1888 to Doctor Robinson who continued as editor until his death in April, 1907.

The family left Maryville about 1889, and a short time afterwards located in Waukegan, Ill. Mr. Dunn was an author of note, writing a series of Civil War stories. The first volume of the Young Kentuckians series, "General Nelson's Scout," was published in 1898. Others of the series are "On General Nelson's Staff," "Battling for Atlanta," "From Atlanta to the Sea," and "Raiding With Morgan.' One of the Young Missourians series was "With Logan In Missouri.'

On Jan. 25, 1873, Mr. Dunn was married to Miss Ida Saunders, daughter of James H. Saunders, a prominent early-day merchant of Maryville. Mrs. Dunn was a sister of Mrs. George L. Wilfley of Maryville. Her death occurred July 4, 1901. Mr. Dunn married a second time, his wife dying several years ago. Six children survive, as follows: Roland, Waukegan, Ill.; Roy B., Lima, Ohio; Miss Ethel Dunn, Waukegan, Ill.; Theodore, Atlanta, Ga.; Milton, Chicago; and Mrs. Dorothy Huffman, Stevens Point, Wis. Mr. Dunn also leaves a brother, Fred I. Dunn of Bolckow.

The G. A. R. will meet at the Baptist Church at 2:15 tomorrow afternoon to attend the funeral of Comrade Dunn.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO 'HIGHBROW'

DR. S. E. DAVIS DIFFERS WITH COMMON OPINION.

SPEAKS AT COLLEGE

A tribute was paid to the "highbrow" at the State Teachers College assembly this morning by Dr. S. E. Davis, president of the Dillon, Mont., State Teachers College. Dr. Davis was formerly a teacher at the local College, being chairman of the education department for four or five years. He left Maryville eight years ago.

The visitor is a guest at the home of C. Edwin Wells, librarian at the College. He was the guest of honor at an informal luncheon at the College Residence Hall at noon today. A number of faculty members attended the luncheon. Tonight Dr. Davis will be a dinner guest at the home of Uel W. Lamkin, president of the college.

"Highbrow Ideals of Education" was the subject of the talk this morning. Dr. Davis prefaced his speech with the statement that there would probably be many who would disagree with him. Then he proceeded to eulogize the highbrow.

"When used as a verb, 'highbrow' is no good," he said, "but used in the sense in which I refer it to, 'highbrow' is a fine thing."

Those who use their mind more rapidly, who have a keener appreciation of life, and who think more readily than the average are highbrow, according to Dr. Davis' definition.

College should make a highbrow of the right kind out of an ordinary person, he contended, because in college a person requires a number of testes and habits which make him a little different from the average man.

"A highbrow is a person who knows things which do not come immediately in his own environment. The average person in Maryville knows where Arkoe is, but the highbrow can tell you all about Budapest."

Dr. Davis used a number of illustrations in his talk. He spoke of highbrow literature and music. He told of magazines which are just good reading. Then he told of those which are read by the person a little above the average.

"The hen is necessary—quite necessary, but she isn't highbrow," he said.

The assembly this morning was the last for the fall quarter at the College which ends Wednesday afternoon. Today is the last day for classroom recitations. Examinations begin at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning and continue until 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The winter quarter at the institution begins with registration at 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning, November 30.

CONTROL PLAN TAKEN COOLLY

BOTH WETS AND DRYS SKEPTICAL ON ANDREWS PROPOSAL.

PASSAGE IS DOUBTED

Wets Claim To See Admission Of Failure In Request For Regulation Of Medicinal Liquor.

Washington, Nov. 22.—The proposal of Federal Dry Chief Andrews for government supervision of medicinal liquor production and distribution encountered skepticism today from congressional wets and drys alike.

Privately some drys expressed doubt as to whether Congress would sanction such a measure, while wet leaders foresaw in the proposition "the first official recognition that the Volstead Act is inadequate."

Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana, ardent dry, declared he thought it would be "worth while to make the experiment," which Andrews proposes, for government purchase of distilleries and stocks, through a "private" corporation set up by the government.

"There may be some question as to the efficacy of the proposal because it does not include government distribution of industrial alcohol as well as medicinal liquor," Walsh said, "but I believe the dry senators in Congress will accept the recommendation of Andrews, who knows much more about the situation than they do."

The Anti-Saloon League issued a statement commenting dubiously on the proposal:

"The League is delaying final decision on its attitude toward opening distilleries because the facts concerning it are not available. Whether the United States should renew the manufacture of whiskey here or buy abroad, as the law provides, is an open question.

Senator Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey, one of the leaders of the wets in Congress, hailed the movement as the "first official step in recognition of the fact that the Volstead act cannot be enforced."

"It would have Uncle Sam turn from the role of prohibition enforcer to that of bartender," a statement from his office said.

The wets also will determine their attitude on the proposal later. A conference of wet members of both houses will be called after Congress convenes on December to adopt legislation policies.

Robert E. Kyle has purchased today Mrs. Sarah F. Hasty's farm of 170 acres, two miles south of Graham at $175.00 per acre. It was a cash deal.

This is the farm upon which the house was burned some months ago, leaving no buildings except the barn.

Lloyd Davis Arrested on Charge of Forgery

Floyd Davis, 21 years old, was arrested today by Deputy Sheriff Frank Burchett of Graham on a charge of forging a check for $10 on Frank Shamberger. Davis works for Reed Dysart, near Graham. The check was given to the Reavis Shoe Co., here for a pair of boots and some socks he bought at that store.

Julius Ellerman suffered a stroke of paralysis last week at his home in Clyde. It is expected that he will recover unless pneumonia sets in.

FALL-DOHENY TRIAL BEGINS

TENTATIVE JURY IS SELECTED IN OIL SCANDAL CASE.

KINSMEN APPROACHED

Mysterious Inquiries Are Made As To Business and Social Connections.—Trial May Last Long.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Twelve men, including a negro brick layer, had been tentatively picked early this afternoon for jury service in the conspiracy trial of former Secretary of the Interior, Albert B. Fall and the multimillionaire oil man, Edward L. Doheny.

Both sides had exercised the right of peremptory challenges before these twelve men were in the box and it was understood that the final winnowing would come soon after the luncheon recess.

The process of tentative selection moved rapidly, but it was flashed with revelations that some kinsmen of panel members had been approached mysteriously as to the business and social connections of prospective jurors.

A Climax to Scandal.

The oil scandals which shocked the nation two years ago reached a climax today when two old westerners, an oil man and a rancher, went on trial here today.

The rancher, Albert Bacon Fall, former secretary of interior, who will be 65 next Friday, and the oil man, Edward L. Doheny, multimillionaire and former surveyor and miner, more than 70, face a maximum sentence of two years in federal prison and $10,000 fines.

They are charged with conspiracy to defraud the government, in connection with the leasing of the huge rich Elk Hills naval oil reserve in California to Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum companies.

An ordeal of three weeks to three months facing a jury confronted the two noted figures when Associate Justice Adolph A. Hoehling called their indictments up for trial in the little room assigned to Criminal Division No. 1 of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, in the new, white stone court-house here.

Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, special government prosecution counsel, have hopes for a short trial but the expected inadmissability of the evidence gathered by the Walsh senate oil committee as evidence in a criminal trial is expected to prolong it. The great array of defense lawyers, organized in two seperate staffs, expects to fight to the last ditch to defend Doheny's $100,000 unsecured loan to Secretary Fall as a "friendly transaction between two friends for 30 years." Whether or not this transaction,—the famous "little black bag" incident of the oil scandal, influenced Fall in awarding the Elk Hills lease to Doheny's company the following years, is the issue upon which the decision will be made by the jury of 12 men.

Christian Church Puts Off Its Homecoming

The annual homecoming at the Burlington Junction Christian Church, which first was scheduled for yesterday, was postponed and will be held next Sunday.

The congregation of Workman Chapel will join in the homecoming services. There will be the usual services in the morning, followed by baptism of several persons who joined the church during the recent revival at Workman Chapel. A basket dinner will be held at noon, and at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon there will be an address by the Rev. R. E. Musgrave, pastor of the First Christian Church of Maryville.

The M. M. Circle has charge of the homecoming arrangements.

Mexican President Denies Controversy

"Concern" Over Alleged Assistance to Nicaraguan Rebels Is Declared Without Foundation.

New York, Nov. 22.—There is no controversy between Mexico and the United States over alleged Mexican assistance to Nicaraguan rebels nor over the alleged propogation of Communism by Mexicans in Central America, President Calles informed the United Press in telagram today from Mexico City.

It had been intimated here that the United States government was "concerned" with the alleged activities of Mexican communists, who were described as seeking to spread their doctrines in Central America to the discomforture of American interests there.

For some weeks the conservative government in Nicaragua had charged that the rebellious liberals were being supplied with arms by Mexicans.

CAN'T PROVE SLUSH FUND

WALMSLEY ADMITS LACK OF PROOF OF K. C. CHARGES.

IS "COMMON TALE"

Reeds Calls Republican Politician to Appear After Assertion of Big Contributions.

Kansas City, Nov. 22.—Less than fifteen minutes was the time required today for Harry R. Walmsley, Republican politician, to tell Senator James A. Reed that he could not back up his charges that the Kansas City Public Service Company had contributed a large sum to the local Democratic organization in the recent campaign.

Reed called Walmsley to appear before him after Walmsley wrote to Senator George W. Norris, Republican, Nebraska, making the charge that the company donated between $250,000 and $700,000.

Walmsley denied emphatically that he had any direct knowledge of the reported contribution. He explained that he wrote Senator Norris that the report was "common talk" and suggested an inquiry.

Milwaukee Railroad Is Sold at Auction

Butte, Mont., Nov. 22.—In the little, unpretentious area-way of the Milwaukee station here, the 11,000-mile long Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway was up for sale today.

A dozen railway officials and financiers waited in a special train for 11 a. m., mountain time, when Hubert Lundhall, a special master in chancery, was to put the $750,000,000 railroad "on the block" at the world's greatest auction.

Uel W. Lamkin, president of the State Teachers College, has received notice of a meeting to be held in Kansas City on Saturday, called by Dr. Roy Ellis, president of the Springfield State Teachers' college. Presidents of the five state teachers colleges and of the University of Missouri, and Charles A. Lee, state superintendent of schools, will attend.

PIEPMEIER TO RESIGN

Chief Engineer Will Leave State's Employ and Join Highway Chairman in Kansas City.

Jefferson City, Nov. 22.—The resignation of Theodore H. Gary as chairman of the Missouri Highway Commission has been received, Governor Sam A. Baker announced today.

Governor Baker said he had made no decision as to a possible successor for Gary and indicated that newspaper guesses have been far off.

The United Press learned authoritatively today that B. H. Piepmeier, chief highway engineer, will resign about January 1 and go to Kansas City where he will become associated with Gary in his public service interests.

Joy and Sorrow Mix in Queen's Departure

Rumanian Government Informs Marie Her American Tour Has Not Pleased Some of Her Subjects.

Tuxedo, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Queen Marie enjoyed the next to the last day of her American visit here today, an excursion marked by considerable pleasure and a great deal of anguish.

When the royal party boards the liner Berengaria tomorrow night, it will be with mixed feelings of joy and sorrow over the tour of this country, for a large part of her trip here has been unprofitable from a state as well as a sentimental point of view.

She has been informed by her government that the Rumanian press has not been altogether kindly in its treatment of her American visit, particularly since the squabbles among her party began in the west coast and for a time threatened to disrupt her party.

Her early return therefore is considered most wise and is said to have the full support of Bucharest officials.

Waterways Dissension Deplored by Hoover

St. Louis, Nov. 22.—One thousand waterway boosters met here today at the annual meeting of the Mississippi Valley Association and heard Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover deplore the litigation and quarrels which stand in the way of waterways improvement.

Hoover is the principal speaker, although a notable list of waterways enthusiasts are on the program for the two day meeting.

Hoover said that all the litigation and quarreling about waterways would cause "feeling but they do not produce water."

Hall-Mills Defense Seeks to Prove Alibi

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 22.—A succession of witnesses came to court today to testify in support of the detailed alibi of Henry Stevens, which formed his defense to the murder charges against him in the Hall Mills case.

In an unhurried orderly fashion the defense steadily built up the alibi. Witness after witness corroborated, even down to a detail so minute as the weight of a bluefish, the loan of a fishhook, and the color of a spaniel dog, the statements Henry Stevens made on the witness stand Saturday when he was the first major witness of the defense.

Seldom has a court seen an alibi supported in such remarkable detail.

It was believed that today would mark the end of the individual defense of Stevens and that tomorrow the defendant's counsel would turn their attention either to Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall or Willie Stevens co-defendants with Henry Stevens and offer perhaps as remarkable an alibi for them.

Trenton—Final plans are being made for the Older Boys' Conference, to be held in this city Nov. 27 and 28.

The retirement of Theodore Gary, head of the state highway commission, will be a distinct loss to the good roads movement. He has given a great deal of time and thought to the work at practically no cost to the State and has been regarded as the driving, organizing and business influence on the board. Another man may be secured, who together with the other members of the commission, can carry the work along successfully but Mr. Gary has lent prestiage and business experience that is not common to state commissions of bureaus.

WE'RE ALL SILK STOCKINGS.

(Emporia Gazette)

Since women have had knees, silk stockings have pushed cotton and lisle clear off the sidewalk. Short skirts simply cannot expose cotton. What good is a knee when it does not twinkle? Manufacturers of silk hose have become so fat and wealthy, they are now in a position to buy up a whole island, like Wrigley, the chewing gum man.

Time was when one of the biggest dry goods stores in Emporia kept only a dozen boxes of silk hose in stock. Shelves were piled with cotton and the saleswoman thought she was in heaven when she sold a pair of silk. The fruit of the worm was so rare in Emporia 20 years ago, that students in any college who paid $1.50 instead of $1.25 for their boarding club, were distinguished from the mob by the envious term, "silkstocking crowd."

In those days, fashion outdid herself in making sheer cotton stockings. One Emporia clerk recalls cotton "as thin as chiffon," which sold for 59 and 60 cents a pair. Fine lisle stockings for 75 cents were in the dispatches from Paris! A mother, who is now aghast at her daughter's demand for silk stockings, did not consider them important enough to be in her trousseau—that final supreme effort in assembling clothes.

Now, "what have we here?" It takes mighty tall talk from saleswomen to get rid of hose with even six inches of lisle top. What is more horrible than a bit of cotton showing?

Even the junior high school children tease for silk stockings, and get them, although their mothers consider ribbed cotton stockings more appropriate.

We are all the silk stocking crowd. Woman wears "atmosphere," 'moonlight,' 'even-glow,' and 'shadow' and struts unblushing.

Two dollars is the common price for "silk all the way up." One runner and the stocking is demolished! "What price glory?"

It has been 28 months since Fall and Doheny were indicted. It took 76 years to build the pyramids.

Dr. James Goes to Help in Campaign

Group of Methodist Pastors at Sheridan Today.—"Tragedy of Insufficient," Sermon Last Night.

Dr. C. C. James, pastor of the First Methodist Church, went to Sheridan today in the interests of the campaign to raise $300,000 for the Missouri Methodist Hospital at St. Joseph. Dr. James is a member of a group of workers headed by the Rev. W. C. Harper of Hopkins and including also the Rev. B. W. Smallwood of Sheridan, the Rev. B. D. McKowan at Parnell, the Rev. H. A. Doughty at Pickering and the Rev. J. B. Walrafen at Barnard.

Tomorrow these pastors will be in Parnell and Wednesday in Hopkins.

Dr. George H. Simon of Oklahoma, who is in charge of the campaign throughout the district, came to Maryville last night and remained until noon today.

In his sermon last night, Dr. James preached on the "Tragedy of the Insufficient," in which, using the text of Belshazzar and the handwriting on the wall, he sought to show that the man who does things in defiance of God "never gets very far."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

Washington.—The average senatorial secretary works for a man who remains just a senator.

But blessed is he—or she—who manages the office and correspondence of one who becomes a national or international personage and has no worries about the fickleness of his constituents.

Miss Cora Rubin of Boise, Ida., secretary to Senator Borah, is the envy of scores of men and women of similar status in the Senate office building.

Miss Rubin is clerk of the important Foreign Relations Committee by virtue of being secretary to the committee's chairman. On each of these jobs she has replaced a man.

She has been with Borah since he first ran for the Senate. That was 20 years ago.

Girl secretaries were almost unheard of then, and she came here as Borah's personal stenographer. She ascended to the secretaryship seven years ago, taking the place of Earl Venable, who now is secretary to the Republican congressional committee.

Sessions of the Foreign Relations Committee are executive, but Miss Rubin sits through them all, listening to the the unraveling of important international situations and interesting behind-scenes details which are highly secret but which must often be considered in the making of treaties. She takes care of both records and treaties.

The Invisible Foundation

"Modern industry is not built upon a foundation of brick and mortar, stone and steel. Its real foundation is an invisible fabric of ideas"—says J. H. Van Deventer in "Industrial Management."

On this invisible foundation the business of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been built. The history of the growth of this Company is a history of the development of ideas.

From the beginning, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has realized the importance of this invisible foundation.

It was among the first organizations to establish a research laboratory adequately equipped for scientific investigation and study—a place where ideas might be encouraged and developed and tested.

In this laboratory men of initiative and scientific training have been brought together to work out the problems of petroleum and make this great natural resource of increasing service to mankind.

In the seclusion of this laboratory, Standard Oil Company (Indiana) ideas have originated which have revolutionized the entire industry.

For example, in the research laboratory of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) were developed the first processes for producing gasoline by cracking, which have more than doubled the yield obtained from crude oil by former methods.

These processes were leased to competitors and thus benefited the entire industry and ultimately all the motorists of the country.

Recently a new theory of scientific lubrication has been worked out in the research laboratory of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

This discovery has resulted in the development of a new motor oil which solves many of the lubricating problems that have baffled experts for years. The far reaching importance of this discovery to motorists cannot be overstated.

These are but two examples of revolutionary ideas originated in the laboratory of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) which have been converted into important benefits to every motorist in the Middle West.

Every product of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is the result of careful scientific research backed by experience.

Upon this invisible foundation of ideas and scientific research the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has built the sturdy structure of its vast organization to serve the 30 million people of the Middle West.

Christmas Draws Near; Here's First Santa Claus Letter

Young girls and boys are evidently thinking about Christmas, as Saturday The Democrat-Forum received its first Santa Claus letter from Carlton Burns of Barnard. The letter follows:

"Dear Santa Claus: I would like to have Gilbert's tool chests, a pair of rubber tired, ball bearing roller skates for boys, and a ukulele and a rubber horse shoe game, a pair of field glasses and a Tom Mix cowboy outfit, size 10, and a football.

"From your friend,
"Carlton Burns."

"Camouflage," Subject of Rev. Dewar's Talk

"Sin Clothes Itself in Deception Promising Worldly Joys; Wages of Sin Is Death."

The Rev. Wm. N. Dewar of the First Presbyterian Church, preached on the subject, "Camouflage," Sunday evening. His text was taken from Genesis 27, which tells how Jacob robbed his brother, Esau, of his birthright by impersonating Esau before his blind old father, Isaac. "And Jacob drew near unto his father Isaac; and he felt him and said, 'the voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau.' Thus did Jacob practice the art of camouflage.'

"Camouflage," said the Reverend Dewar, "is a word that became popular during the war and is descriptive of the practice employed by both sides to insure safety from detection by the scouts of the skies. The airplanes were the eyes of the enemy. From prying eyes gun batteries were to be concealed. This was done by making them look like an old barn or a haystack. It was a camouflage. The practice of deceit. The making of something to appear other than it is.

"This," said Mr. Dewar, "was the art practiced by Jacob to deceive Isaac, and it succeeded. Jacob, however, in deceiving Isaac had deceived his own soul. He was compelled to buttress his acted lie with a spoken lie. He gained the birthright but he perjured his spiritual manhood in doing it." The Rev Dewar said, "The man who gains something he falsely imagined is necessary to life at the cost of living a lie is camouflaging his own soul, he is deceiving himself and paying more than the thing gained was worth."

The minister cited illustrations from Shakespears' Macbeth and Scottish warfare in the time of Robert Bruce. He touched also on the camouflage practiced in nature. "The Indian garb," he said, "was a camouflage, it enabled the wearer to blend into the landscape and escape detection. Birds and butterflies and animals are endowed with the power for safety sake to take on the color of their surroundings.

"Many of our social practices," says the Rev. Dewar, "are a camouflage. They lead us to the adoption of artificial manners that keep us from being our natural selves. We put on for the occasion, we act a part. It is a species of the age-old trick of camouflage. It is an apish trick, possibly, descriptive of our very early ancestry.

"Camouflage," the preacher went on to say, "is characteristic of diplomacy, business and commerce. The art of deceit is common to these realms.

"Sin," he said finally, "is the great camouflage. It clothes itself in deception, promising its devotees or dupes pleasure and worldly joys. But it is a dupe, for the final wages of sin is death.

Prather Talks on Mission of Church

Text Is Taken From Book Of John; Service Worthy Utmost Effort.

"The Mission of the Church," is the subject that the Rev. Guy L. Prather of the First Baptist Church, selected for his sermon yesterday morning.

"As thou didst send me into the world, even so did I send them into the world," taken from the seventeenth chapter of John, was the text used.

"We follow in the footsteps of the Master. His life and work are ideals and motives to move us. Like Peter we follow afar," the pastor declared.

"First we have the 'Worldwide View,'" he explained. "It is ours to go over seas, or mountains, or deserts; or into jungles, or dangers, or lonely places; or among strangers and far from home. Among other races, languages, religions, social customs; meeting ignorance, opposition, martyrdom.

"Second, we have the assigned work. Jesus says "Make disciples of all the nations." We bear God's message of salvation—forgiveness, power to overcome evil, power to endure, eternal life. Not by law, or force, but freely and by peaceful means. By good works, to let the light shine, so men will rejoice and glorify God. We must obey, if Jesus means to us what we claim, if those without Christ are lost, if we follow his command and example.

"Third, we have the Required Sacrifice. Salt dissolves and surrenders itself in service. Light burns itself out in willing service for worthy and unworthy. "Ye are the salt." "Ye are the light." The disciple is often surrounded by evil and darkness, hostility, hardship, death. If we do not go to distant lands, yet should our better surroundings and larger resources stir us to serve as nobly and as largely as those who give up all to serve in other places.

"Fourth, we have the Promised Presence. As God was with Jesus at birth, at baptism, in temptation, in the Garden. So he is with us. "Lo I am with you." To gird us for our task. To assure us of victory. We can claim his presence only so far as we seek his kingdom, as we do his service. His service and his presence would greatly stir us with joy, with resources, and with power. Jesus' response was 'I delight to do thy will, O God.' Our response should be willing and generous with all of resources and all of life. The Christ and his service is worthy of our largest support and utmost effort."

Thanksgiving Program Given at High School

Girl Reserves Stress Spirit of the First Observance.—Students to Contribute to Welfare Drive.

A program in keeping with the Thanksgiving week was given this morning before the student body of the Maryville High School by the junior-senior Girl Reserve organization. Miss Fannie Hope is the sponsor.

The program expressed throughout a reverence for the season, describing the first Thanksgiving observance, the purpose and spirit of the day.

Students have been asked to make a free will contribution of food or clothing in proportion to the spirit of the giver. This will be turned over to the Welfare Board. The plea for student contributions was made through a talk on "An Expression of Gratitude," by Edwyna Forsyth.

The program was opened as the Girl Reserves marched in, each bearing a lighted candle. As they reached their places in the auditorium they sang, "Follow The Gleam."

Beverly Martin presided throughout the program. Devotions were in charge of Neva Wilkerson, president of the organization. She read from Psalm 103.

The student body was led in the singing of "America The Beautiful". A sextet of girls supplied a special number. A reading was given by Doris Walker and a story by Leola Miller. Talks were given by Beatrice Puckett, Mildred Sandison and Edwyna Forsyth. The benediction was given by Miss Hope.

Maryvillians Have Hectic Trip Home From Columbia

A number of Maryville football fans who motored to Columbia for the Missouri-Kansas game Saturday had harrowing experiences in getting back from Columbia to Kansas City on highway No. 40 after the game, because of the snow-covered concrete and the number of cars.

One party from here left Columbia at 5:30 o'clock and arrived in Kansas City eleven hours later, at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

At Boonville, the number of automobiles passing through was estimated at 5,000. The load on the Kansas City St. Louis highway was said to have been by far the heaviest since its completion.

Moving at a snail's pace, the line of cars, miles long and separated only by a few feet, crept out on the highway at Columbia for the homeward journey. Only a few were equipped at the start with chains, and the first few skidding, slipping, sliding yards that were covered brought a faint light of understanding of the difficulties to be overcome.

There was no backing out, for, once on the highway, with the gleam of headlights showing in front and behind as far as one could see, there was only one thing to do, or rather try to do, and that was to keep moving.

Slam went the brakes as the car ahead suddenly came to a stop with much sliding. Some driver had skidded into the ditch or crossway across the road. After fifteen minutes, the cars ahead started, only to halt again when one of them stalled on a hill, commenced sliding down. Then again there was only one thing to do, and that was for all the hands in the nearby cars to pile out and push them up the grade.

Here was a car in the ditch, with its nose in the bank and hood crumpled. There a car with wheels in the air and the top smashed beneath it. At one town a rumor that four girls had been killed, at another that two boys were dead, at still another that a woman was dying in the local hospital.

These things were calculated to make nerves "jumpy," when steadiness was most needed. But eventually, driving and driving, plying the brakes gingerly and doing everything else humanly possible to keep a rubber-tired vehicle on eighteen feet of glass surface while rounding a curve, the Maryville folks eventually reached Kansas City. There the snow was lighter and the rest of the trip was comparatively easy.

Maryville Delegation to Hear Will Rogers

A number of Maryville persons will go to St. Joseph this evening to hear Will Rogers and the DeReszke singers, who will appear at the Auditorium. Mr. Rogers, "who is liable to talk about anything or anybody," according to the printed programs, will appear after the musicians have presented their numbers. He will give a brief sketch of his recent European trip.

Among those from Maryville who will attend are:

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Reuillard, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Mutz, Mr. and R. P. Hosmer and daughter, Betty Alice, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hull and daughter, Elizabeth, Dr. and Mrs. C. V. Martin and daughter, Miss Beverly Martin, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Pierce, Miss Pauline Mahr, Mrs. W. F. Chaves, Miss Hattie Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Phares, Mr. and Mrs. Arch K. Frank, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Dietz, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Raines, Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Tulloch, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Strong and Harvey L. Haines.

Nearly Half of Goal in Canvass Is Reached

Nearly half of the goal has been reached in the every member canvass which the First Baptist Church is holding. "Follow-up" work on the drive will be done this week and it is hoped to have the task completed by Sunday. The goal for current expenses is $5,200, and for missionary work, $1300.

Former Maryville Residents Have Party at Woodland, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Hull of Woodland, Cal., former residents of Maryville, entertained recently for former Maryville residents who are living at Woodland. In a letter to The Democrat-Forum, Mr. Hull writes as follows:

"Woodland is a nice town of about 7,500 inhabitants, located twenty miles from Sacramento, and the town and surrounding country is inhabited largely by former Missourians.

"I have just read Homer Croy's article in the Cosmopolitan entitled 'My Home Town' and found it very interesting.

"While I have been away from Maryville almost seventeen years, I still am proud to refer to it as 'back home' and am thankful that I was reared in a community where morality and character count for something.

"That may sound a little harsh for the rest of this grand and glorious country but since traveling around considerable for the last few years I am convinced that any boy or girl who has the good fortune to be born and raised in such an environment as Maryville affords is exceedingly fortunate.

"I hope to be able to visit Maryville in the near future and if anyone from Maryville comes to California they will certainly be welcome at our home."

The following account from the Woodland Democrat tells about the party given by Mr. and Mrs. Hull:

"At the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Hull, a group of young Missouri couples gathered together last night at the Hull residence at 511 Third street for an evening of reminiscing and pleasurable chat. Mrs. Ira Moore, Mrs. Ottie Ritchie, Mrs. Leslie Caldwell, Lou Jennings and Mr. and Mrs. Hull, formerly lived at Maryville, Missouri, and were well acquainted in the 'Show Me' State.

"Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Monk, guests last night and new arrivals in Knights Landing district where Mr. Monk has taken a position in the Bank of Italy's branch, came from Burlington Junction, Missouri, which is only a few miles distant from Maryville.

"Old times and old-timers were the topic of discussion last night. Pronouncing it a most enjoyable reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ritchie, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Moore, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Monk, the Misses Elizabeth and Hilda Ritchie, Hazel Moore and Virginia Caldwell, Mr. Lou Jennings and Mr. and Mrs. Hull."

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

JUDITH MARTIN, a young teacher at Pendleton University, is admired by ERIC WATERS, bolshevistic senior, and DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor.

MYRA ALDRICH, a spoiled beauty living at Judith's boarding house, hates Judith because of Eric's attentions to her.

Dr. Dorn, a co-worker with DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN on the discipline committee, disapproves of Judith's student friends.

With Eric, Judith gets into numerous scrapes, among them a dinner at a roadhouse which is raided and a moonlight hike from which she is compelled to accept a ride home with "KITTY" SHEA, town ruffian, because Eric has drunk too much.

Dean Brown tells her that his wife is going to visit friends in a small town upstate, but Judith sees her in the city hotel where Judith has gone for a week end of relaxation. Mrs. Brown is escorted by a handsome man.

When she returns to Pendleton, Eric gets off the same train and Dean Brown sees them together. Mrs. Brown sends for Judith and throws herself and her secret on her mercy. Judith assures her she will not speak of having seen her in town.

During this conversation, the dean comes home and says sneeringly, "I trust you and Mr. Waters enjoyed your week-end trip, Miss Martin."

Judith leaves the house in anger. On the way home she is accosted by "KITTY" SHEA, a town ruffian, who threatens to tell of seeing her dining at a roadhouse with Eric some time before, just before the place was raided. Shea is frightened away by two men students.

Harassed by these worries that night, Judith falls asleep only to be wakened by steps below. She finds Myra, in a coma from poison liquor, leaning against the front door. Judith nurses her through the night.

Myra swears to live down the incident, which is the first of its kind. She is grateful to Judith.

Next day, Judith goes to a conference suddenly called by the dean. There Dean Brown brings in a newspaper with the headline, "Two Students Die of Poison Booze." He indirectly accuses Eric of bootlegging the stuff.

Eric walks into the conference and denies complicity. He appeals to Judith for her faith, and Judith follows him out of the room. When Dr. Dorn follows and pleads with her not to infuriate the dean, she leaves him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

The tears which Judith was fighting back made her eyes burn and her throat ache almost intolerably. She brought up at last, under the impression that someone was sitting by a sumac bush near the campus bridge.

Peering through her tears, she took a step toward him. Eric was seated, hugging his knees, under the flaming red foliage of the sumac. He lifted a face of gloom, but brigtened when he saw her. "Jude!"

He scrambled to his feet and took her hand. "Jude," he said choking, "You're a peach. I can't—"

"Never mind," said Judith. "Come and walk with me."

When they were passing the Tavern, Eric spoke. "Let's go in and have some coffee. We both need it." She nodded.

Meeting each other's somber eyes over a little table, they both laughed, but there was a note of hysteria in the laughter.

Eric did not smile. "Honor itself seems to be tottering. At least, mine is. I stand convicted in everybody's eyes as a murderer, or something of the sort." He lifted his head and looked at Judith. The salt cellar which he had been twirling spun away to a standstill.

He spoke with quiet desperation. "Honest, Judith, I had nothing to do with those deaths. Black and Miss McPherson were in our party last night. But I don't know where they got their liquor. Everybody had a little, you know. But each brought his own. Myra was with us. She'll tell you I had nothing to do with it."

Judith scanned his face. "As for Myra—it's small thanks to you she's not in the morgue with the other two. She was horribly sick last night."

Eric sat up straight. "Myra? But I told her not to take that stuff. I didn't know she did. My God, how'd she get home?"

"The young men who gave her the corn whisky were at least decent enough to bring her home. I nursed her all night."

Eric looked conscience-stricken. "I shouldn't have let her go in that other car," he said. "But she had deviled me all evening. Finally she threw a little tantrum and dodged out of my car and wouldn't speak to me again. It didn't occur to me that the boys wouldn't take her home safely. I felt pretty sick, myself and drove a while in the country, finally going to sleep in the car."

Judith shrugged her shoulders. "After all, she is a young girl, and she was in your care."

He nodded, wretchedly. "It was rotten of me. Did it poison her? My God, she might have died!"

Judith smiled at him without speaking.

He fumbled for words. She's a nice kid—and I've known her all my life."

"Oh," said Judith, dryly. "So that's the sum of it."

Eric picked up his glass of water and drank it dry. "Look here, I don't want to talk about Myra. I want to talk about you. You were simply magnificene this afternoon. I hope it won't injure your standing with the dean permanently. If I'd stopped to think, I wouldn't have put you in that painful position before the faculty.

"But, at the moment, it just seemed that I had to find somebody that believed in me. This mess has got me very low, Jude. I don't see how I'm ever going to vindicate myself. I wish I'd kept clear of the business. I don't think it's wrong to drink. But when it comes to selling poison whisky—or being suspected of it—well, that's a bit unsavory."

"Yes," said Judith, gravely, "it is."

They finished the meal in silence, and the waiter brought the check. A gray envelope fluttered out of Eric's pocket as he reached for his bill fold.

"Gad!" he cried. "There's my mother's letter. It came this afternoon, just before I heard the news about the deaths. I haven't read it yet. Do you mind if I do now?"

"Of course not," said Judith. He was already tearing open the envelope. His face fell.

"What's the matter?" asked Judith. "Bad news?"

"The worst. Mother comes through Pendleton tonight, and wants to stay over a day. She's on her way to New York, to sail for Europe. I thought she wasn't leaving for a week yet. I'm sunk if she hears the talk about me."

"It IS pretty bad," said Judith. "You'll just have to keep her occupied every minute of the time and speed her on her way tomorrow night."

Eric frowned hopelessly. "No. She says she wants to give a dinner party for me tomorrow evening at the hotel. Says for me to go ahead and invite seven or eight friends."

"Can't you persuade her you'd rather have a quiet evening with her alone?" asked Judith.

Eric shook his head. "You don't know my mother."

"Well," said Judith, "then you'll have to choose her table companions very carefully. Even so, the talk is almost certain to get around to your newest scrape."

Eric was thinking. "Listen, Jude, will you come and sit on one side of her at the table, while I keep guard on the other? Of course I want you to come anyway, but you can help me out a lot by doing that."

Judith smiled. "I'll do my best. But isn't it almost time for her train?"

Eric pulled out his watch. "By jove, we've got only ten minutes. He flung down a bill on the table and rushed in search of a taxi, Judith following less frantically.

The engine was just coming in sight around the curve of track when they reached the station platform. Eric left Judith behind, while he ran up and down the length of the train.

Judith stood back to let the crowd pass. Presently she saw Eric coming toward her with a handsome white-haired woman on his arm. The woman wore a rich mink coat and toque.

"Mother," said he, "this is my friend, Miss Judith Martin. She came down with me to welcome you."

The green eyes beneath the mink turban were like Eric's. They swept over Judith coolly. "Indeed," said Mrs. Waters, "how do you do, my dear?" Then turning to Eric, "and where is dear Myra?"

"Don't mind mother," whispered Eric later in the cab. "She didn't mean to be cool. She's always known Myra. That's all. Remember I'll be after you at seven sharp tomorrow."

"Very well," said Judith slowly. "But I don't like it." He squeezed her hand gratefully.

Myra toddled into Judith's room next morning before breakfash and pushed in her pink nightgown on the end of Judith's bed.

"Why so sober?" asked Judith.

"I'm not sober," said Myra. "I'm just meditating. I'm going to have a new evening dress and I was wondering what color it should be. Chinese red appeals to me. It's so easy to spot."

Judith's brows wrinkled. "I can't see that that is an advantage."

"Myra giggled. "Silly Billy. Easy to spot on the dance floor, I mean. That's what red dresses are for—so the stags can keep track of you."

Judith laughed. "And are you finding it necessary to resort to such tricks?"

Myra looked serious. "I danced three times around the floor with one man last Saturday night at assembly. It was horribly embarrasing. If I'd had a Chinese red dress I'll bet that wouldn't have happened. For one thing, Will Wetherel grabbed me for the last dance and asked where on earth I'd been. He'd been hunting for me all evening on the floor."

Myra hopped off the bed. "Will you go out to dinner with me tonight, Judy? Let's have a real party, just we two, as a sort of love feast after the war."

"All right," said Judith absently.

The recollection of Eric's dinner party came to her during an afternoon class and she hurried home from school to apologize to Myra.

But she had no chance. Myra came tripping into Judith's room as soon as she got home. "What a wonderful day! I pledged G. D. this morning. Isn't that grand? I can be initiated at Christmas." She pirouetted before the mirror.

"Say, Judith, will you excuse me from that date tonight? We'll postpone it, if you're willing."

Judith was taking her evening dress off its hanger in preparation for Eric's party. "Why, surely, Myra. In fact, I would have had to break the engagement with you, if you hadn't done it first. I got my dates mixed."

Miss Stedway's voice called Judith to the telephone.

Eric was on the wire. "Listen, Judith, I'm in an awful jam. Mother called up Myra and invited her to the dinner—told her I'd come after her at seven o'clock. Argued with her, said I'd asked you and couldn't go after Myra. But mother wouldn't give in. She's rather spoiled, you know. Now I'm afraid to fight this thing out, with all the scandal hovering over me. Will it be all right if I send Wetherel for you?"

"It will be quite all right to send nobody after me," said Judith. "I'm not coming."

(To Be Continued.)

Judith watches the stars with Dr. Dorn in the next chapter, and the reader learns of a new side of the serious minded professor.

Shaw Changes Mind About Nobel Prize

$30,000 Will Go to Promote Literacy Understanding Between England and Sweden.

London, Nov. 22.—George Bernard Shaw has changed his mind and decided that, after all, he will accept the money amounting to $30,000 as well as the honor that goes with the Nobel prize in literature recently awarded him.

He altered his decision, however, for the announced purpose of making possible use of the money to foster better knowledge of each others literacy works between England and Sweden.

When the award was made a few days ago Shaw said it must have been given to him because he didn't write anything during the year for which it was made and that he would take the honor but didn't need the money. He suggested it be used to promote literacy understanding between England and Sweden.

But the board in charge couldn't find any way to use the money for such a purpose.

"I will facilitate the matter by momentary accepting the prize in order to transfer it legally to the purposed fund," Shaw wrote to the Swedish minister in London.

U. S. Dollars Earn 15 Times Face Value

Washington, Nov. 22.—Each dollar in circulation in the United States earns nearly 15 times its face value annually because of the venturesome spirit of this country, treasury statistics show.

With less than $5,000,000,000 in circulation, the country each year supports agricultural and industrial production of more than $78,000,000,000. If actual cash were involved, each dollar in circulation would turn over at least 15 times but much business is carried on by credit margins.

America now has $8,438,000,000 actual money in circulation and stored in the United States treasury. The wealth of the nation, because of its wide business ramifications, is estimated at more than $500,000,000,000.

Treasury officials said there is little real hoarding in the country.

Commercial and industrial activities during 1925 will net stockholders about $4,400,000,000 in dividends while the government will pay out $800,000,000 interest on the public debt.

Thursday is Thanksgiving Day, a national occasion made so by Abraham Lincoln when he was President, and should be observed by every one. Let us not be unmindful of the Puritans in the winter of 1623 when they grew small crops. Seven grains of corn was the allotment per meal for each colonist, yet they could assemble and thank Almighty God for the other blessings of liberty they were enjoying. How much easier it should be for us to render thanks for the blessings which are ours in 1926. When we assemble with our families next Thursday we will have real reason to be thankful for our material condition, also our social, educational, and religious privileges.

NO NATION IN THE WORLD IS EQUAL TO OURS.

C. of C. Is Warned About Bad Check Men

Descriptions of "Workers" Are Received By D. A. Caldwell, Local Secretary.

The Maryville Chamber of Commerce has received warnings from various cities against "bum check artists," D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the commerce body, announced today. Among them are the following:

A man, using business card bearing name 'Malcom R. Foster, Dist. Rep., Square "D" Switch C., 600-604 Commercial Bldg., Chicago, passed bad check on Miami bank, purchased merchandize and took some cash. Drove Chrysler car, weight 160 pounds, of good appearance, fair and pleasant. Company states no such man ever employed.

Man giving name of Thomas Burns giving check on Mendota, Ill., National Bank. Purchased small item—offered check in payment, getting merchandise and cash. Five feet, six inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, dark hair and ruddy complexion. Dresses, looks and acts like a farm hand or laborer. Appears to be American born, of Irish parentage. Claimed check was payment for two weeks work.

Man, signing name as M. A Farrell, posing as representative of the Commercial Film Association of Chicago, selling advertising space in local papers to merchants on the ground that his company will follow up with locally made movie. Collects all he can and then as soon as anyone's suspicion is aroused leaves. Calls himself 'Foxy Granndpa.' Tall, about 50 years old, gesticulates freely with sales talk, fails to make good on proposition.

Man, giving name of J. Selwin, poses as salesman for Morin Shoe Co., Philadelphia, recently passed bad check on First National Bank of Philadelphia, signed "Charles Morin, Pres." No such company in Philadelphia. Bought merchandise, gave check and names of several persons buying shoes from him direct. Phone inquiries verified his statement, but check came back.

Man, C. H. Giersch, passed bad check on Waldo, Kan., State Bank.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS IMPROVE

EFFICIENCY DOUBLED DURING PAST YEAR, SAYS REPORT.

ONE IN TEN SHOTS HIT

Washington, Nov. 23.—Improvement in the nation's anti-aircraft defense has been rapid during the last year, according to the annual report of Major General Andrew Hero, Jr., Coast Artillery Chief, made public today.

"Marked advance in accuracy of fire and the precision with which searchlights locate planes at night" were described by the report. The percentage of hits in anti-aircraft fire at moving targets was given as 9.35 percent for the first half of 1926, compared with 4.67 percent for the Fort Tilden tests of 1925.

But anti-aircraft defense and all other activities of the coast artillery corps have been seriously curtailed by inadequate funds, according to Hero.

"Gradual but steady reduction in funds availale for target practice ammunition, for new types of material, for the transportation of personnel and material, and for inspection" and "a shortage of 19,557 enlisted men and 677officers", were stressed by the report.

"Larger appropriations for continuing the defensive installations in overseas possessions and for fire control of all long-range batteries are necessary in the interests of economy. The time is near when a program for the production of necessary war reserves of anti-aircraft material should be approved as a major policy and the necessary appropriations provided." Hero said.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—The firm Liverpool market dominated sentiment in the wheat pit on the Chicago board of trade today. Wheat closed 1⅛ to 1⅞ cents higher. Cash prices closed steady. Export business was dull.

Corn broke sharply early but the rally in wheat prevented a serious decline and the grain closed ⅝ to ¾ cent lower. Cash prices closed ½ to 1 cent off.

Oats closed ⅝ to 1 cent lower. Spot values were ¾ to 1¼ cents lower also.

Provisions closed sharply lower.

What Are You Doing For Your Puny Child?

One Boy Gained 11 Pounds In 7 Weeks And Is Now Strong And Healthy.

For weak, frail, under-developed children—and especially those that have rickets, and need a sure builder that promotes the growth of teeth and bones, cod liver oil is the one medicine supreme—nothing helps like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date chemists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, sugar coated and as easy to take as candy.

One boy gained 11½ pounds in seven weeks, and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at Gaugh & Evans and all druggist and money back if not satisfied—always insist on McCoy's—the original and genuine.—Adv.

Captain Hyslop, Maryville's Apartment Baron, Also Is A "Keeper of the Bees"

"I'm a bee keeper."

"If I have any trade, it's that," declared Captain Charles Hyslop, owner of several apartment and other dwelling houses in Maryville, who last week presented each of his tenents a gift of honey purchased from a company in Illinois, from which Captain Hyslop purchased his first bees back in 1867.

This year the captain ordered four dozen five-pound cans of honey to give to the families living in his apartments and houses. That amount was not sufficient and he ordered more.

"I'd like to have some bees right now," he declared, but added with a sigh, "they can't be raised in town because they annoy people."

When Captain Hyslop came to Missouri from Illinois, in 1874, he entered the boot and shoe business, but two years later he sent to Illinois for his two carloads of bees. He was in the bee business in Illinois with his father-in-law. Each car that was sent contained 84 stands of bees and the first car he sold at $10 a stand. It was at this time that Maryville's apartment baron moved to a farm one mile north of Maryville and there really became a "Keeper of the Bees."

Captain Hyslop tells as one of his experiences, of a cow that the bees nearly killed.

The cow was fastened in the yard where the bees were kept. "Like a fool," said Captain Hyslop, "I was reading the paper and had forgotten the cow. My wife came running to me, crying 'the bees are killing the cow.' I rushed out there and untied the cow, but I was a solid mass of bees and so was the cow. She was rolling over and over on the ground."

It took a half day to remove the bees from Mr. Hyslop. He was bare-armed and bare headed and a "solid mass of bees. When a physician arrived, however, he predicted that Captain Hyslop would "pull through" since he was immune from the poisoning because of continual work with the bees.

When he was keeping bees, the captain opened twenty hives a day.

"I learned to kill the bees before they could sting me," the former keeper explained. "There are two kind of bees, those that arrive in a quietly peaceful frame of mind and those that are vicious. I can tell the difference," he said.

"We didn't swarm the bees, when I was a bee keeper; we raised the queens and divided them." he explained.

Captain Hyslop is nearly 84 years old and is active in the building business. At his desk this morning he had a copy of "Huckleberry Finn."

"I like it," he asid, "and, too, it is printed with large type. I do not use glasses anymore and so I enjoy the large type. I do all my business without glasses," he said.

Out of appreciation for the honey which Captain Hyslop gave them, several persons living in his apartments have dedicated a poem in his honor. It was composed by R. W. Richards and the following persons signed their names along with Mr. Richards:

Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Simpich, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross Fleetwood, Mrs. R. W. Richards, Lca Rachel Fleetwood and Wayland Richards.

The poem composed by Mr. Richards follows:

There dwells a man beside us here
Who always has a word of cheer,
He's not exempt from common pain
But somehow turns it into gain.

He's liberal and full of grace
We trace it plainly in his face.
When blessings find their way to him
He does not lock them in a bin.

He sends them forth among his friends
And so to them good will extends,
On waters thus he casts his bread
And blessings fall upon his head.

His motto is "GIVE THANKS, KEEP SWEET"
And then goes forth his foes to meet.
Then every honey comes his way
"Tis his delight to gi' it away.

So blessings on your head good friend,
For Honey's sweet and tasteful blend.
May we your friendship long enjoy
May naught occur to cause annoy.
